Sustain & Save

BUY, SELL, SUSTAIN – TOGETHER, WE BUILD A GREENER CAMPUS

DID YOU KNOW?

A recent study by RRS (2021) reveals that while 63% of U.S. universities have recycling programs, their average recycling rate is only 24%. This means the majority of campus waste—including clothing, food, and electronics—still ends up in landfills. With over 20 million college students in the U.S., this contributes significantly to environmental harm.

Supporting Stats:

Clothing Waste: Contributes to the 11.3 million tons of textiles sent to U.S. landfills annually.

Food Waste: Colleges generate over 22 million pounds of food waste per year.

E-Waste: A growing category, with 50 million tons of electronic devices discarded annually.

THIS IS A PROBLEM

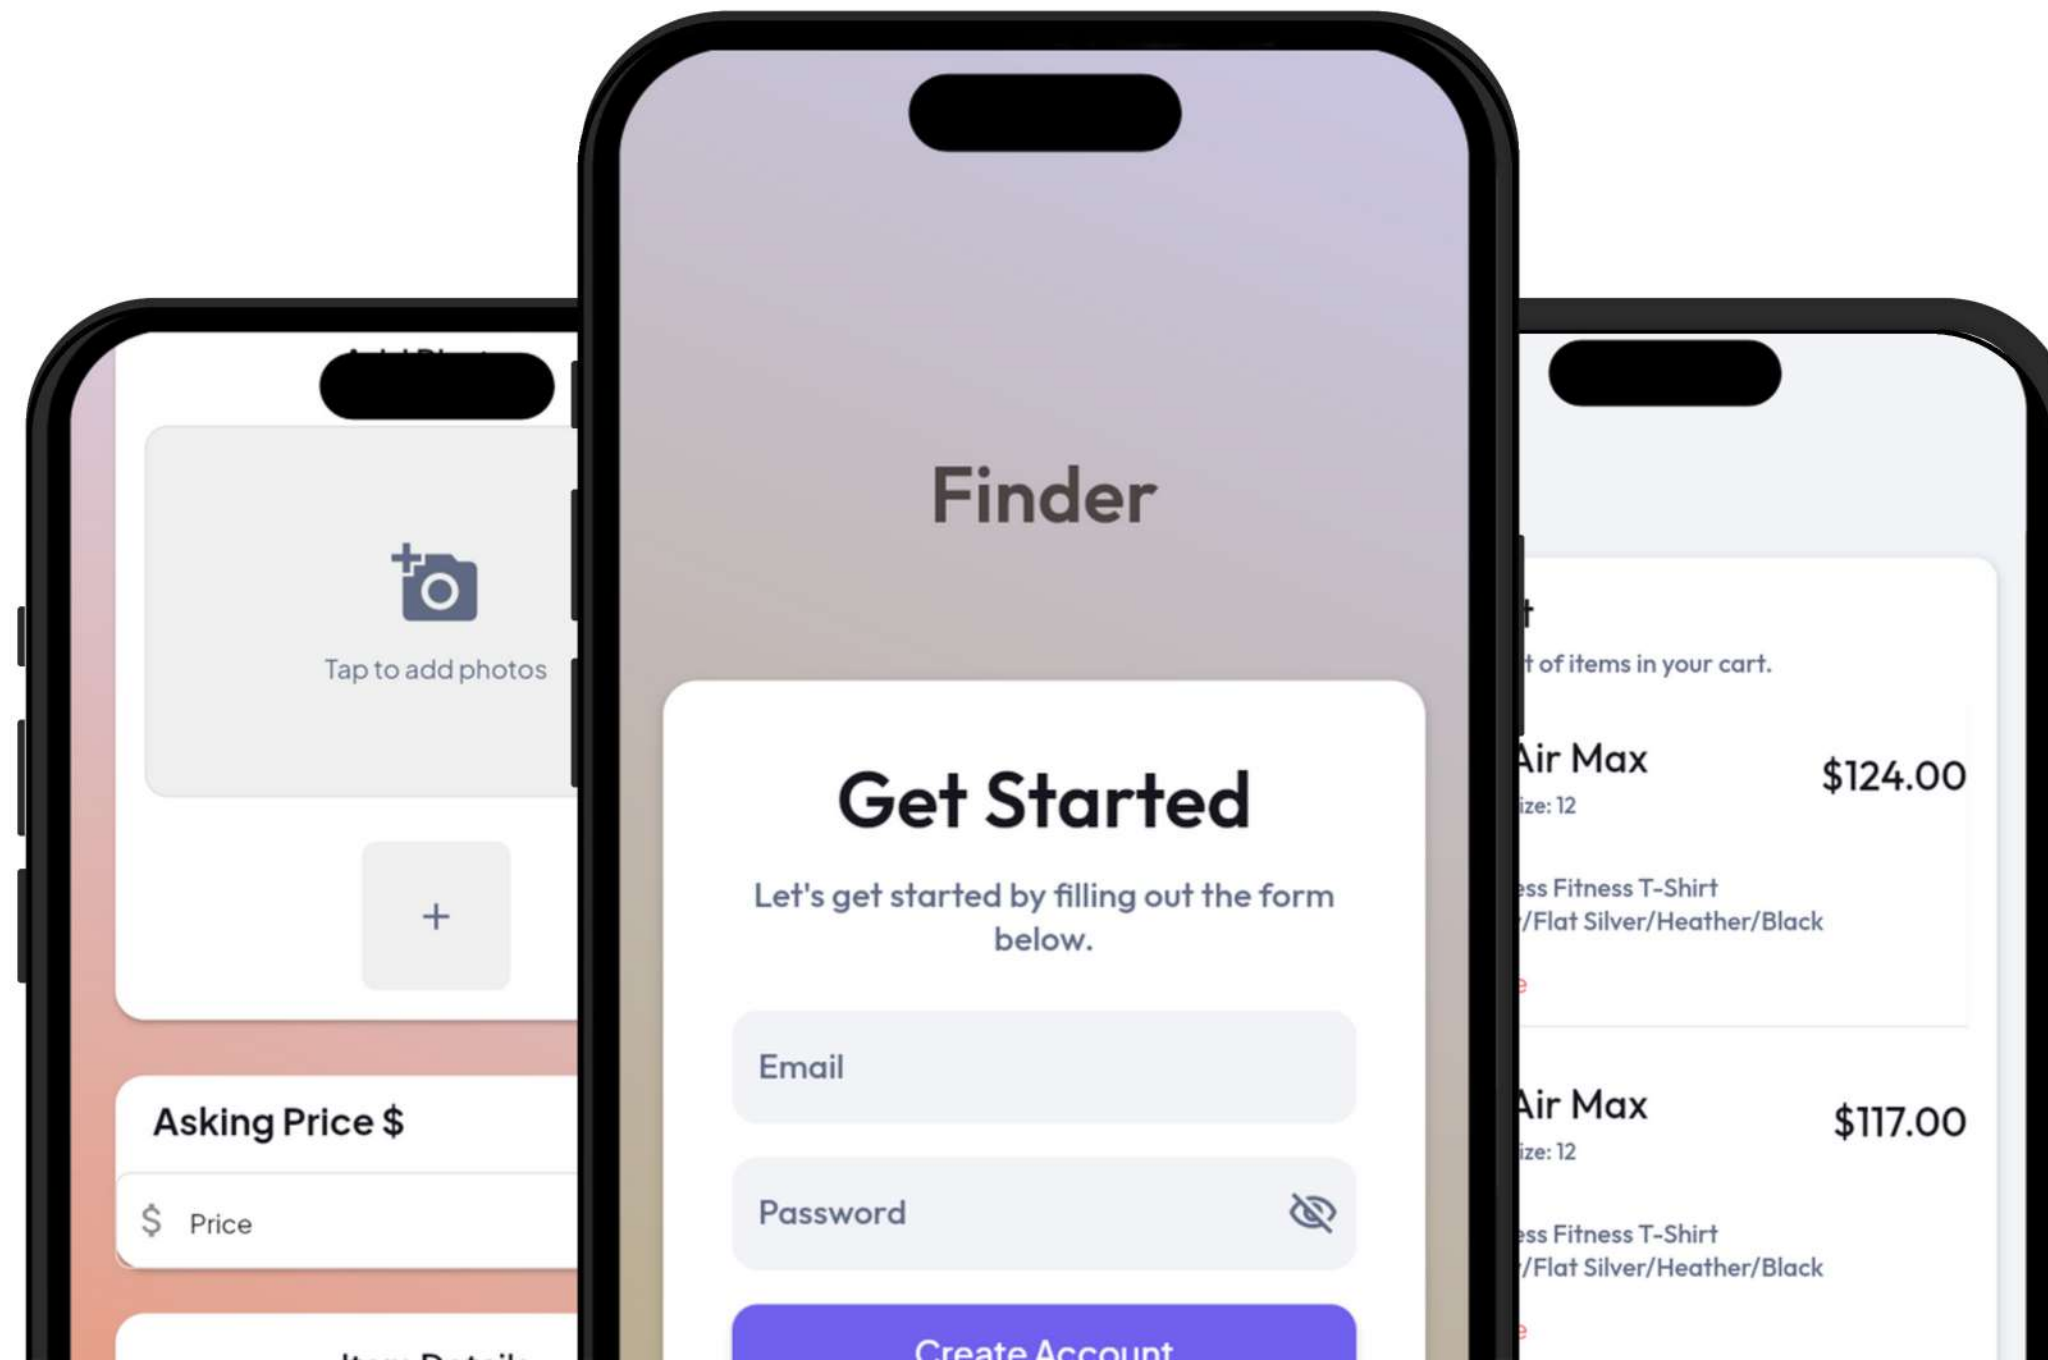

Every year, most of these end up in landfills, contributing to environmental harm. Meanwhile, students struggle with tight budgets, often buying new items when perfectly good ones are just sitting in someone else's dorm. There's a clear gap between waste and need.

This is where Finder comes in!
